The Fifth International Symposium on the Poetics of Science Fiction at Tel-Aviv University

18-19 March 2018

For the fifth time, the international symposium on the poetics of science fiction took place at the university, organized by the students and faculty of the department of English and American Studies with the generous support of the School of Cultural Studies. The symposium was a standing success. For the first time we had an internationally renowned plenary speaker: Prof. Susan Radcliffe of Royal Holloway, University of London, who is both a world-renowned scholar of science fiction as an emerging literary genre. The three-day symposium included an array of international speakers from as far away as Korea, Japan, Denmark and the US, along with local scholars both young and established. The topic debated covered a wide array of subjects, from the meaning of humanity to the
