The Fifth International Symposium on the Poetics of Science Fiction at Tel-Aviv University

18-19 March 2018

For the fifth time, the international symposium on the poetics of science fiction took place at the University of London, organized by the students and faculty of the Department of English and American Studies. The symposium was held in collaboration with the British Academy and the Royal Society of Literature. The keynote speeches were delivered by some of the leading scholars in the field, including keynote speakers from universities in the UK, the US, and Germany. The topics covered included new ways of thinking about the nature of science fiction as a form of storytelling and its role in society. The symposium ended with a roundtable discussion on the future of science fiction.
